ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Using observation agents, listening agents and notifying agents, a method and system provides for using distributed business data without the need to integrate the distributed data. In addition, the notification can occur in "real time" without batch processing.